You'll feel like you've struck gold when you choose the El Dorado home design from Garrette Homes. With so many ways of customizing the design to meet your needs, you'll certainly feel like king or queen of your castle. With 4123 square feet of outstanding living space, El Dorado can be finessed to become anyone's dream home.

At heart, this layout is for a two-story, primary-on-the-main home with four bedrooms, 3.5 bathrooms, a den, dining room, great room, spacious kitchen with dining nook, upstairs bonus room, front porch, back patio, and a three-car garage. All of this is before you start exploring the multiple options that could result in up to six bedrooms and five bathrooms.

With five exterior elevation options ranging from Craftsman variations to a stunning combination of stone and siding, the home has immediate curb appeal. With attractive front porches, large windows, and transom and side windows surrounding the front door, El Dorado is beautiful and sure to provide plenty of natural light.

The home is laid out around an L-shaped walkway/hallway design that starts with the welcoming entry that features a coffered ceiling. The entry foyer and its arched entrances to the den and dining area also leads you past the second and third bedrooms and shared bath. These rooms are set off slightly from the rest of the main floor to provide added privacy. The L-shaped walkway turns to take you past the great room and its access to the large kitchen and dining nook. The walkway continues leading past the mud room, laundry room, stairs, powder room, and ends with the arched double-door entrance to the primary bedroom suite.

The primary bedroom has an optional tray ceiling and its own private patio. From the bedroom, you access the grand bathroom through double doors. There you'll find a dual-sink vanity, a luxurious bathtub with another arched entrance, and multiple separate shower options. The bathroom also features a separate toilet room, a linen closet, and access to the spacious walk-in closet.

This L-shaped hallway provides additional space to keep areas of the home defined, while still maintaining an open-plan layout in the main living part of the home. It also adds to the dimensions of the great room, which connects to the spacious kitchen with island, walk-in pantry, and dining nook for more casual meals. The great room lives up to its name with plenty of windows and a stunning coffered ceiling.

It's easy to take advantage of the optimizable features of the El Dorado layout to create a home that feels like it was built just for you. The mud room, which connects to the garage, can include a drop zone or closet. Alternatively, the mud room can be smaller and make room for an even larger laundry room with plenty of space for the optional sink and additional cabinetry. Even the powder room by the laundry can easily be altered to become a full bathroom.

The variety of layout options doesn't end there. The front den and dining area can be turned into another bedroom with its own full bathroom and walk-in closet. Alternatively, if the dining nook is enough for your family, you can keep the den and turn the dining room into a larger coat closet in the entry hallway, along with a powder room, and walk-in storage area.

Now it's time to head upstairs, where the El Dorado plan continues to provide a wealth of layout options. For some, it's perfect simply as another bedroom with a walk-in closet, full bathroom, and the rest of the space serving as a bonus room. You can even choose whether you want the bedroom to be in the front or the back of the home. Whether you're using this
